Our mission —

To provide university students with a concise view of the job market and allow them to explore opportunities available to them

The problem —

Despite the increasing job opportunities and career paths open to university students, there exists a gap between the market and the learners. Students are unaware of what companies desire and companies are unaware of the skill levels of the students

The analytics

97%

of students feel they are not ready for the job market

33%

of students feel existing solutions don't fully solve it.

67%

of companies don't have an attachment coordinator

What if students and companies had an inside man?

Solution

Natu seeks to bridge this gap by providing a platform where students and companies can share experiences and learn from each other.
